Oh, what a difference there'll be on the morning of March 5 for Teddy!

The Steel Trust finally concluded to cut prices in order to induce buying. It had to come to it sooner or later.

THERE is a pronounced reluctance on the part of the growers of Burley tobacco to again enter the pool, without the movement to do so is practically impossible.
The Tennessee legislature passes bills, Gov. Patterson vetoes them and the legislature passes them over the vetoes. Patterson can well trust the future for his vindication.

WILLIAM J. LEWIS BRYAN is lacking in a sense of humor. He is quoted as saying somewhat "I am an interviewer that if people wanted him to run in he would consider it his duty to do so."

This vicinity was overshadowed by a cloud of sorrow when the death angel entered and took from the midst of us on February 15 Elder R. T. D. Zimmerman. He had been a resident of this neighborhood for about thirty-three years with the exception of a few visits to Western States of some months at a time. In the past few years he spent a good deal of the summer months on Licking river fishing.

Bro. Zimmerman had long been a minister of the Gospel and for a number of years had preached every first Sunday at Harper's school-house, always to a large audience. He was a good man and had a remarkable memory. While he had no college education he knew the Bible almost by heart. He devoted all his life to studying the word of God.

Elder Zimmerman died a great work throughout his life. He had baptized about two thousand people and had married about fifteen hundred couples. His health had been failing for several months. Had he lived till the 25th of this month he would have been 80 years old.

His funeral services were conducted by Elder Joe Jones. Let those who loved him and whom he loved in turn, and who were his friends, and who were his neighbors, after a life well spent, with its every duty well performed, the soul of this good man has at last found eternal rest and the scenes of its creation and in the presence of God.

If your wife likes funerals, enjoy them with her.

R. O. Vanlandingham moved to a farm west of Owingsville.

James Staton and Mrs. Effie Sprunk were married Thursday at Little Razor's.

Chas. Baker, of Mt. Sterling, bought a new house at Lexington.

John Otis at ten dollars an acre. The land lies near the Hedrick school-house. Baker also rented one of Theodore Shout's houses for his son-in-law to live in and clear up the land.

A three-year-old girl of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atchison is very ill. The doctor says she is dying and the doctors don't know what her disease is.

John Myers, of Salt Lick, has moved to the farm of his father-in-law, O. Vanlandingham.

Wm. Flood will go back to Illinois to work this year. Girls do not cry, for Willie will return by and by.

REAL GOOD FORTUNE.—There was a shivering sound of breaking glass heard in the dining room.

"Oh, gracious, James! Have you broken another wine glass?"

"Yes, madam, but I was really fortunate, for this time it only broke in two pieces."

"Well, sir, you call that 'being fortunate,' do you?"

"Yes, madam; you can't imagine what bother it is to pick them up when they break into a hundred pieces."

POOR KINGS.—A colored preacher in Georgia was edified on one occasion by the recital of a dream told by a member of his church.

"I was a dreamer" all of his time," said the narrator, "at I was in Ole Satan's dominions. I saw a demon, that was a bad dream."

"Was da any white men dar?" asked the dusky divine.

"No, no, dere was a plenty of 'em," he hastened to assure his minister.

"Was da da a doin'?"

"Every one ob 'em" was the answer, "was a holdin' a nigger between him and his fire."—Harper's Bazar.

HE ALMOST REMEMBERED IT.—John had returned from a visit to the country, and was full of reminiscences of persons and things that had interested him.

"I met a boy, mamma, that had the queerest name I ever heard. He said his folks found it in the Old Testament."

"Let me see—yes, it was Father William, or William Father; I've forgotten just now which. But it was a boy, mamma."

"But, Donald," said his mother, "there is no such name as Father William or William Father in the Old Testament."

"Are you sure, mamma?"

"Certainly am, dear. I have said it through several times. It was a comparative modern name. It isn't anywhere in the Bible."

"Well, but—oh, I remember it now. It was Biddad," exclaimed Donald.

IN LOVE.—A dashing young man who was dead in love wrote his little book of sweetness a letter as follows:

"Dearest, my love for you is stronger than coffee or the kick of a cow. When I think of you, my heart goes up and down like my mother's churn dasher and visions of doubt creep over my mind like a fog on a rainy day."

Sensations of exquisite joy go through me like young goats over a stile road. I feel as though I could lift myself with my boot straps to the height of a church steeple.

As a gossamer swimmer in a mud puddle, so do I swim in a sea of delightfulness when you are near me. My heart oscillates like a shaker in a family mill, and my eyes stand open like old-lard doors in a country town.

My love is not reciprocated! I will not let you know it, for I am sure you will catch cold over my grave."

Keep your coat well brushed; a strange hair often tells a stranger's tale.

Never tell your wife see you shaving yourself and lather don't mix.

Job Printing.

Why not HAVE THE OUTLOOK do your printing? We can do it as well and as cheaply as you can have it done else where, quantity and quality considered. Run over this list and see if there isn't something in it you need.

Letterheads, Noteheads, Envelopes, Billheads, Statements, Pamphlets, Blank Forms of all kinds.

We have both rug and bond (or linen) writing paper, ruled and unruled (for typewriter), ring and bond envelopes. We put writing papers in tablets with blotting paper cover if so desired.

We have for sale in any quantity blanks, such as deeds, mortgages and oil leases.

SUPERSTITIOUS RATS.—An captain on an ocean liner tells the following story:

Coming from the old country was a very nervous old lady who complained that she was sure that there was a rat in her state room.

"Keep it there, madam," said the captain.

"But do you like rats?" asked she.

"I've got a nest in my cabin," retorted the brusque sea captain, "and never disturb them. When they leave the ship I do."

"Why, you must be superstitious," urged the dame.

"No, madam," said the captain, "I'm not, but the rats are."

REACTION IN TEXAS.—Texas is looking up. The Legislature has rejected a preliminary to State-wide prohibition. But that is just a straw. There are other evils by which the State is afflicted.

"Whereupon, the believers in good, old-fashioned principles—the adherents of the doctrine that the people who are best governed are the least governed—moved to a remark."

"I've got a nest in my cabin," retorted the brusque sea captain, "and never disturb them. When they leave the ship I do."

"Why, you must be superstitious," urged the dame.

"No, madam," said the captain, "I'm not, but the rats are."

THIN BEYOND BELIEF.—A fine robust anchor, an Irishman, after serving Uncle Sam for some time became greatly reduced in weight owing to his sparse and scanty rations until he was so weak he could hardly stand. Consequently he got leave to go home and recover.

He arrived at his home station looking very much of a wreck. Just as he stepped off the train a crowd of his acquaintances rushed up to him and said:

"Well, all, Pat, I'm right glad to see you're back from the front."

"Begorra, I knew I was getting thin, but I never thought I could see that much," said Pat.

THE PATIENT'S STRATEGE.—"You must drink hot water with your whisky," said the doctor, "and you mustn't drink it at all."

"But how shall I get the hot water?" the patient queried in a plaintive tone. "My wife won't let me have it for the whisky today."

"Let her hear you want to shave," said the doctor, and took his departure.

The next day the doctor called and asked his wife how the patient was.

"He's gone raving mad," said his wife, "he shaves every ten minutes."

MARRIED BEFORE THEY COULD OBTAIN.—Peter Schulz and Lola Walters were married Saturday before they knew it. The wedding was for tomorrow night at Noble. They came to town together to get the license.

Justice McNeil was standing by, took the license and told them to join hands. In less than a minute they were married. He asked them no questions. All he said was: "I pronounce you man and wife; $5, please."

"Hey, stop!" yelled the bridegroom. "We don't want to be married right now. We are going to be married tomorrow night and there's going to be a supper and big things. The whole country is invited."

"Too late," replied the Magistrate, "thought you wanted quick."
